FOREWORD

Dr. Gordon has provided a vital service to both researchers and to lay scholars who are interested in the Ancient history of African people. She has pulled together and synthesized references from a variety of sources making them available in a format that is accessible to all. This service is long overdue and should stimulate further efforts to expand the pool of material that must be consulted as we attempt to reconstruct the truth of the African experience.

To assist the reader, I have indicated with an asterisk (*) those references which I think are especially important to those with limited backgrounds. I congratulate Third World Press for their recognition of the need for this resource.

The compilation of this bibliography has been tedious and I am especially indebted to Dr. Asa G. Hilliard, III, for his assistance through recommendations from his extensive bibliography. Dr. Hilliard, the Fuller E. Calloway Professor of Urban Education at Georgia State University, is among those African-centered scholars who have conducted research about Kemet and other Ancient African Civilizations. Dr. Hilliard has identified many of the references of particular importance by an asterick (*).

I hope that this bibliography will be of practical assistance to those who have experienced difficulty identifying references on this topic, as well as those who are anxious to extend their personal libraries. I wish to express my appreciation to Black bookstores and distributors who have made many of these publications readily available to the African American community.
